What do you get when you take a bovine and divide its circumference by its diameter? (See the answer at the end of the following announcement.)

The annual Pi Recitation contest will be held Monday, March 14, during MPP in the auditorium. If you would like to be a competitor, let your math teacher, Mr. Dietrich, or Mrs. Schaeffer know approximately how many decimal places of Pi you are able to recite. Get an MPP pass if you are going to compete or if you would like to watch the competition. Answer to riddle: Cow pi

Today is International Women’s Day, a day that has been being recognized every March 8th since the early 1900’s! This day celebrates the social, economic, cultural, and political achievement of women, while also bringing awareness to the progress that has slowed in many places across the world. IWD calls for gender equality throughout a network of governments, charities, corporation, and academic institutions all around the world. Many organizations have declared it an annual holiday in place to support their specific agenda or cause. Women’s continuous struggle for equality is not just a single feminist looking for equal opportunity in today’s world, but a collective effort for all who care about human rights. International Women’s Day therefore exists as a time of celebration, reflection, advocacy, action, or whatever else is needed to bring this issue to a global scale. To learn more about the gender inequality existing in today’s world, take a look at the display currently in the Social Studies Wing!

Tolkien Club will be having a meeting Wednesday 3/9 in room C107 during MPP. We will be discussing a movie night event. If you need an MPP pass please visit Mrs. Barnett in the Social Studies IPC.

Any students interested in going on the social studies club trip to NYC on April 28th, please see Mr. Rothenberger in C114 for more information.
